The family remained private inside their Dorchester home saying they had no comment on the day's development.

Sheff says he does not believe the death of Hernandez will have any bearing on the civil suit as they pursue Aaron Hernandez assets including his home, his vehicle, and even money from his Patriots contract.

The death of the former player has re-opened old wounds, but Sheff says Lloyd's mother Ursula Ward will not pass judgment.

“She had her conviction, Mr. Hernandez chose his fate. She believes Odin is looking down on her and whatever happened, happened for a reason.”

The families of South End murder victims Safiro Furtago and Daniel de Abreu are also moving forward with a wrongful death lawsuit against Hernandez.
